

All His Heart: Jesus's Final Discourse in the Midst of His Own (John 14–17)

Teacher: Sam Kuo

Time: Wednesdays 8:00-9:00 PM ET

Class size: Limit of 20

“Where I am going, you cannot come.” The time of Jesus’s passion was near, and He was going to depart the world and go to the Father. Yet, His heart was not full of His own coming agony but rather was full of His disciples, those men whom He loved and was soon to leave to face the world without Him. John 14–17 are the final words of comfort and instruction Jesus left for those apostles who would become the nucleus of the church. In these words, we see the outpouring of the rich sentiments of the heart of the Son of Man, preparing the disciples for the coming days where they would have to follow Him in a new way.

In this class, formatted as a round-table bible study, we hope that Jesus’s words can also become our nucleus, comforting and becoming a charge within us as we live in this world as His disciples and His testimony. “By this all men will know that you are My disciples.”

Syllabus (Week by week)

1. John 13:31–38
2. John 14:1–15
3. John 14:16–31
4. John 15:1–17
5. John 15:18–27
6. John 16:1–15
7. John 16:16–33
8. John 17:1–12
9. John 17:13–26